HISTORY 3326F
Atomic America:
The United States during the 1950s

Fall/Winter 2020-21
Thursdays 2:30 – 4:30 p.m.

Instructor: Professor Aldona Sendzikas
Office Hours: TBA
Department of History, Office: Lawson Hall 1222
Email: asendzi2@uwo.ca

This is a draft syllabus. Please see your course OWL site for the final syllabus.

Lectures will take place in a virtual, synchronous format - on-line and at a dedicated time

The University is investigating a blend of online and live course delivery, and is being guided by recommendations from health authorities and the provincial and federal governments. The Department of History is committed to providing a superior learning experience for all students, and our faculty members are reimagining their course offerings to take advantage of the best new technologies and practices available in online teaching and learning. Please monitor the department website for course information - we will post updates as soon as they are available.

PLEASE NOTE: It is anticipated that the weekly seminars for this course will be conducted online using Zoom. Please feel free to contact the instructor via e-mail should you have any questions or concerns.

Course Description:
This seminar examines some key aspects of political, social, and cultural life in the United States during the 1950s. Topics include social classes, urban and suburban growth, family and gender relations, McCarthyism, and civil rights movements. The impact and legacy of events and issues of the 1950s are evaluated.

Prerequisite(s):
1.0 History course at the 2200 level or above.

Unless you have either the prerequisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. The decision may not appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites.

Antirequisite(s):
History 3396F/G if taken in 2011-2012.

Course Syllabus:

Course Content and Objectives:
Films and television tend to depict the 1950s as “happy days”: a decade of widespread affluence and stability, close-knit families, and a new teen culture which embraced drive-in restaurants, poodle skirts, and sock hops. Other portrayals, however, present the 1950s as a period shaped by anxiety and marked by conformity and hypocrisy. While many Americans enjoyed the benefits of a strong and affluent post-war society, they also struggled to learn to live in the shadow of the newly-developed atomic bomb. It was a decade of new homes and appliances, but also of backyard bomb shelters, blacklists, and worries about Communist expansion. Meanwhile, Americans such as Rosa Parks and Martin Luther King, Jr., challenged the racial status quo and inspired a movement for civil rights. American women began to question their role in the nuclear family and in society as a whole. Anti-heroes such as James Dean, Jack Kerouac, and Lenny Bruce who resisted conventional norms of society came to be regarded as role models by American youth.

In this course, we will examine some key aspects of political, social and cultural life in the United States during the 1950s, looking primarily at the state of California as a microcosm of the nation. In California of the 1950s we see striking examples of the best and worst trends and developments of the decade. Rapid urban growth, sprawling suburbia, the freeway system and the car culture, Disneyland, Hollywood, booming aerospace and defence industries, the expansion of education systems, in-migration from other states—all of these suggested the idea of America as the land of the future, the land of possibility. At the same time, however, in 1950s California we see evidence of more negative developments, including the destruction of the environment, the ending of urban street car systems, the intensification of urban ghettos, and the excesses of the anti-Communist fervour.
In examining some of the key events, trends, and developments of this period as they took shape in the state of California, we will consider their relevance to and effects on the nation of a whole. Finally, we will compare the California of the 1950s with the California of today in an attempt to determine the legacy of the 1950s.

Learning Outcomes:
By the end of the course, students will have:

- developed a detailed knowledge of key events and issues of 1950s American society
- assessed the legacy and long-term impacts of the events of the 1950s
- familiarized themselves with several significant primary documents of the period and evaluated their historical value and significance, alone and in relation to other primary sources
- critically analyzed various historical interpretations of the decade
- examined some of the cultural artifacts of the period and learned to understand their significance (e.g.: music, poetry, media coverage)
- developed a research question and answered it in a written assignment, integrating both primary and secondary sources in formulating the argument
- developed both presentation and communication skills through class discussion and presentations

Course Materials:
- Weekly course readings will be available online, either through the OWL course website or the Western Libraries website.

Methods of Evaluation:

Grading

- Short paper (4-5 pages in length) 15%
- Presentation/facilitating of class discussion on the topic of the short paper 15%
- Written proposal for research essay (to include: thesis statement or question to be addressed; outline to show how the paper will be structured; preliminary bibliography) (2-3 pages in length) 10%
- Research essay (12-15 pages in length) on a topic of the student’s choosing, in consultation with the instructor (due on the last day of class) 40%
- Class participation 20%

Written assignments
Written assignments are to be submitted as Word documents via the submission link on the OWL course website. (By using the submission link on the course website, your paper will automatically be submitted to Turnitin.com.)

Further instructions regarding the above assignments will be provided in class and posted on OWL.
Late assignments: A late penalty of 5% for the first day, and 2% for each day after the first day (including Saturdays and Sundays) will be incurred for all written work submitted after the due date and time. Papers submitted on the due date but after the due time will be considered late and will be penalized 2%. Keep a copy of each of your written assignments until you receive the grade for it.

Please note that HIS 3326F is an essay course. According to Western’s Academic Handbook, an essay course “…must be so structured that the student is required to demonstrate competence in essay writing to pass the course.” In this class, that means that a student must complete and submit the research essay in order to pass the course.

Expectations:
- Regular attendance. (Attendance will affect your participation mark.)
- Completion of all assigned readings and active, informed participation in class discussion, based on those readings.
- Courtesy and respect towards other members of the class.
- Be present: avoid distractions during the seminar, and try to engage with the class!

Accommodation for missed assignment deadlines with a Self-Reported Absence (SRA):
If a student reports a SRA for an assignment (i.e., an essay) the new due date will be 48 hours after the SRA was submitted. For example, if you complete a SRA on March 19 at 3pm, your new due date will be March 21 at 3pm.

Additional Statements

Academic Offences:
Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at the following website: http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/scholastic_discipline_undergrad.pdf.

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (http://www.turnitin.com).

Accessibility Options:
Please contact the course instructor if you require material in an alternate format or if you require any other arrangements to make this course more accessible to you. You may also wish to contact Student Accessibility Services at 519 661-2111 x 82147 for any specific question regarding an accommodation. Information regarding accommodation of exams is available on the Registrar’s website: www.registrar.uwo.ca/examinations/accommodated_exams.html.
Medical Issues

The University recognizes that a student’s ability to meet his/her academic responsibilities may, on occasion, be impaired by medical illness. Please go to:
https://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/accommodation_illness.pdf to read about the University’s policy on medical accommodation. In the event of illness, you should contact Academic Counselling as soon as possible. The Academic Counsellors will determine, in consultation with the student, whether or not accommodation should be requested. They will subsequently contact the instructors in the relevant courses about the accommodation. Once the instructor has made a decision about whether to grant an accommodation, the student should contact his/her instructors to determine a new due date for tests, assignments, and exams.

Students must see the Academic Counsellor and submit all required documentation in order to be approved for certain accommodation.

Please visit https://www.uwo.ca/univsec/academic_policies/index.html to view all updated academic policies regarding medical accommodations.

Plagiarism:

Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea, or a passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offense (see Scholastic Offence Policy in the Western Academic Calendar).

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (http://www.turnitin.com).

Students are expected to retain all research notes, rough drafts, essay outlines, and other materials used in preparing assignments. In the unlikely event of concerns being raised about the authenticity of any assignment, your instructor may ask you to produce these materials; an inability to do so may weigh heavily against you.

The following rules pertain to the acknowledgements necessary in academic papers.

A. In using another writer's words, you must both place the words in quotation marks and acknowledge that the words are those of another writer.

You are plagiarizing if you use a sequence of words, a sentence or a paragraph taken from other writers without acknowledging them to be theirs. Acknowledgement is indicated either by (1) mentioning the author and work from which the words are borrowed in the text of your paper; or by (2) placing a footnote number at the end of the quotation in your text, and including a correspondingly numbered footnote at the bottom of the page (or in a separate reference section at the end of your essay). This footnote should indicate author, title of the work, place and date of publication and page number. Method (2) given above is usually preferable for academic essays because it provides the reader with more information about your sources and leaves your text uncluttered with parenthetical and tangential references. In either case words taken from another author must be enclosed in quotation marks or set off from your text by single spacing and indentation in such a way that they cannot be mistaken for your own words. Note that you cannot avoid indicating quotation simply by changing a word or phrase in a sentence or paragraph which is not your own.

B. In adopting other writer’s ideas, you must acknowledge that they are another writers ideas.

You are plagiarizing if you adopt, summarize, or paraphrase other writers’ trains of argument, ideas or sequences of ideas without acknowledging their authorship according to the method of acknowledgement given in “A” above. Since the words are your own, they need not be enclosed in quotation marks. Be certain, however, that the words you use are entirely your own; where you must use words or phrases from your source; these should be enclosed in quotation marks, as in “A” above.

Clearly, it is possible for you to formulate arguments or ideas independently of another writer who has expounded the same ideas, and whom you have not read. Where you got your ideas is the important consideration here. Do not be afraid to present an argument or idea without acknowledgement to another writer, if you have arrived at it entirely independently. Acknowledge it if you have derived it from a source outside your own thinking on the subject.

In short, use of acknowledgements and, when necessary, quotation marks is necessary to distinguish clearly between what is yours and what is not. Since the rules have been explained to you, if you fail to make this distinction, your instructor very likely will do so for you, and they will be forced to regard your omission as intentional literary theft. Plagiarism is a serious offence which may result in a student receiving an ‘F” in a course or, in extreme cases, in their suspension from the University.
