Course Description

This course examines the history of sexuality from the nineteenth century to the present, investigating sexual desire, behaviour, and ideologies. Topics include the body, marriage, reproduction, prostitution, same-sex relations, and religious, medical and psychiatric intervention, and help demonstrate that sexuality has been the object of social scrutiny and political regulation.

Course Syllabus

Not solely a biological expression that is static and fixed, sexuality is ever-changing, and has a dynamic and vibrant history. This lecture course will examine the history of sexuality from the nineteenth century to the present day. It will investigate sexual desire and behavior, and sexual and gender ideologies, and will explore how they relate to a variety of topics, including perceptions of the body, marriage, reproduction, prostitution, same-sex relations, pornography, disease, and religious, medical, and psychiatric intervention. All of these issues will be studied to underscore the concept that sexuality is both biological and social, and that sexuality and the connected notions of masculinity and femininity (gender) have been the object of intense social scrutiny and political regulation.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Students should be able to:

-analyze the ways in which gender and sexuality are partly socially constructed, and thus vary over time, place, class, and cultures.

This is a draft outline. 2025-26 version. Please see the course site on OWL Brightspace for a final version.

-examine the ways in which the history of sex and sexuality intersect with other historical trends and movements.

-explore the ways in which discourses about sex and sexuality have often been used as a tool of oppression and as a way to promote the status quo.

Methods of Evaluation

Test 1 (one session, 30 minutes (maximum 65 minutes), 30 multiple-choice questions), Thursday, September 25, 9:00 am-Sunday, September 28, 9:00 am (EST), worth 25%, covers the course materials of the first 3 units (Weeks 1-3, Units 1-3)

Test 2 (one session, 40 minutes (maximum 85 minutes), 40 multiple-choice questions), Thursday, October 23, 9:00 am-Sunday, October 26, 9:00 am (EST), worth 35%, covers the course materials of the next 3 units (Weeks 4-6, Units 4-6)

Final Exam (one session, 60 minutes (maximum 150 minutes), 60 multiple-choice questions), December TBA (3-day window), worth 40%, covers the course materials of the last 4 units (excluding Week 13) (Weeks 8, 10-12, Units 7-10)

1. Each assessment is designed to be completed within the indicated duration; however, all students will be afforded double the designated time (see the maximum duration in brackets), meaning that for students with time accommodations, these are already built into the time allowance.

2. Try to write the assessment as soon as possible within the three-day window as you could be faced with technical problems that require time to address or with conflicts/commitments that arise in the latter period of the window. Write the test within your first available hours.

3. Make-up tests, midterms, and exams can only be approved by Academic Advising. Please see https://history.uwo.ca/undergraduate/program_module_information/policies.html for department procedures and requirements involving make-up tests and exams.

Accommodations and makeup assessments (tests and the final exam) will only be provided for students who first receive academic accommodation from an academic counselor. Please keep in mind, as indicated in the first point above, that double the required time has already been built into the writing time of all assessments. Barring exceptional circumstances, this guaranteed accommodation AND the flexibility already built into the three-day submission window will preclude further accommodation (including makeups) regarding the two tests and final exam.

4. If you have a disability, please ensure that your accommodations for this course are active on the Accommodated Exams website. Any accommodation posted there (the request should be made at least 10 days prior to your test/exam) will be applied to your assessment. <http://studentservices.uwo.ca/Accommodatedexamssignup/>

Students who submit fewer than the three required assessments will not qualify for a passing grade in the course, regardless of marks received.

Course Schedule and Readings

The designated weeks cited below serve as a guide that allow you to complete the course content in an organized and consistent fashion in anticipation of tests and the final exam. Please note that the schedule also accommodates assessments, as well as official university holidays. Please be aware of your test dates – you will want to reserve studying time in the weeks prior to these dates.

WEEK 13 (Monday, December 1-Tuesday, December 9)

PERSONAL REFLECTIONS

-Do the activities (including the readings) that you might have missed – how much more do you now know?

-Peruse the comments of your classmates and TA on FORUMS – do you agree or disagree with their opinions? Why?

-Ponder your views of various topics – have they changed or remained the same?

-Consider all of the weekly lessons – which topic/reading affected you most profoundly? Why?

-Revisit course lectures and readings for your final exam – do any of the issues that they raise intersect with those in your own life? In what ways?

-Finally, re-examine the course's banner photograph! Are your impressions of the image any different than they were four months ago? In what ways?

END OF TERM
